Problem Statement

The current system for booking New Zealand Sign Language (NZSL) interpreters is broken and has remained so for decades, with little improvement. Many users find it difficult to navigate, making the system unreliable and stressful. NZSL interpreters are one of the primary ways Deaf people communicate with hearing individuals. Signing enables faster, clearer, and more accurate communication, bridging both language and cultural gaps. Access to interpreters is essential for every Deaf person.

Unfortunately, obtaining an NZSL interpreter is often challenging and unreliable due to the broken booking system. Without one, Deaf people can miss important information and face barriers to moving forward.

Every Deaf person deserves the right to access interpreters without barriers.

Without interpreters,
Deaf people have no access.

Deaf rights are human rights.

Reo Ringa

Sign Language Interpreting

is a sign language interpreter agency.

It features an improved and accessible UI and UX design that addresses the issues in interpreter booking in New Zealand. This represents a small but important step toward resolving these challenges.

Chat with Staff

Kia ora! Welcome to Reo Ringa. How can we help you with booking?

Hi I'm organising a special event and was hoping you could help me arrange a sign language interpreter. It would mean a lot if you could.

Of course! I can help with that. Could you please share a few details about your event like the date, location?
